MECHANICAL and electrical design and build contractor Derry Building Services was named the winner of the Training and Staff Development category at Newark Business Awards 2013.

Derry Building Services of Newark was established in 1734 and has 198 employees.

Its training policy ensures that the specific training needs of individuals are identified and met.

The company currently employs 16 apprentices, 55 former apprentices, 19 employees undergoing the in-house training programme, and 62 who completed recognised industry apprenticeships before joining.

The company believes that reliability, trust and loyalty built in long-term working relationships brings huge benefits, particularly in securing repeat business.

Constant improvements in the training programme help ensure this continues.

The company was one of eight category winners at Newark Business Awards.

The business awards are designed to celebrate

Derrys build on success

the many successful and vibrant businesses and business people in the Newark area and, over the last eight years, the event has established itself as a benchmark by which local business success can be measured.

Derry Building Services received its award during a glittering black tie ceremony at Kelham Hall.

More than 300 guests sat down to a three-course meal before listening to guest speaker Benedict Allen, explorer, television presenter and author.

Guests watched video presentations of the finalists in the eight categories, after which the winner in each category was presented with their award by the category sponsor.
